ELECTIONS FOR COUNCIL TOMORROW

Keen Interest Shown by the Students

IN UNION

A Record Poll of Votes Is Expected

The students are evincing a keen interest in the Students' Council elections which take place to-morrow. The campus is alive with the students discussing the respective merits of each candidate and their chances to secure office. A greater amount of activity is shown in the coming elections than has ever been manifested before. This is in part due to the fact that the candidates themselves are doing a great deal more of election campaigning, in the way of speeches, posters, etc.

The candidates for the President of the Council, are Gordon Quackenbush C.
J. Tidmarsh and Errol Amaron. All of these men are well known around the campus, and have proven their worth.
They have shown, by their past activities, that they have the ability to conduct the students' affairs.

The candidates for president of the Union are Packham, Harris and Pudcombe. These men, too, are well known on the campus, and in their various past activities have proven that responsibilities may be given them.

Brewer, Little and Burroughs are the candidates for the vice-president of the Union. What has been said of the other candidates can well be said of these men.

All of the office-seekers have addressed the students and have drawn forth sympathetic applause from them. Most of the Faculties have been addressed separately and to-night at the Smoker, the candidates will address the students as a body.

As a result of the great interest shown by the students in the elections to-morrow, it is expected that a record vote will be polled.

CANDIDATES SPOKE TO ARTS & COMM.

Enthusiastic Meeting in Arts Building Yesterday

The meeting of Arts and Commerce students in Room 5 of the Arts Building yesterday noon was very well attended and one of the most interesting on record. Cecil T. Teakle, Vice-President of the Arts Undergrad., presided, and introduced ten candidates seeking office in Wednesday's elections. It was regretted that J. G. Quackenbush, running for President of the Students' Council, and "Bones" Little, candidate for Vice-President of the Union, were unavoidably absent.

The first speakers were Sydney Harris, J. M. Packham and G. B. Pudcombe, the three candidates for the position of President of the Union, who received a hearty reception, and outlined their programmes. They were followed by W. B. Brewer and R. W. N.
Burroughs, seeking office as Vice-President of the Union. Bev. C. Leech, J.
C. Simpson and K. M. Kent solicited
the support of the Arts and Commerce men, the three running for Secretary of the Union. The last speakers were C.
J. Tidmarsh, M.A., and Errol C.
Amaron, two of the three candidates for President of the Students' Council.

All candidates spoke in a convincing manner, and in general stressed the points in their respective platforms. Owing to the fact that Dean Laing requested that all lectures cease at 12.40
p.m., the meeting was quite long enough, and finished promptly at one o'clock. It is hoped that a record number of Arts and Commerce men will cast their votes in to-morrow's elections.

American young men who look forward to careers as ambassadors, or other representatives of their government abroad, may now be trained for such a career, according to an announcement made by New York University. The announcement makes public the fact that scholarships established there by the late Ambassador Frederic Courtland Penfield are now operative, and will be awarded to candidates whose qualifications best indicate a fitness for careers in foreign service.

UNION SMOKER TO INTRODUCE CANDIDATES

Other Matters Will Also Be Discussed

TONIGHT AT 8:15

Students Will Question Candidates on Their Platforms

To-night, at 8.15, in the Union, a Smoker will be held with the main purpose of introducing the candidates for the various student offices. This has been the custom for the past few years and has been found the best method of bringing forward the different men to enable them to address the student body as a whole. Students will be allowed to ask the speakers questions relative to their respective platforms.

During the last few days the candidates have visited the various faculties and addressed the classes. Yesterday morning the various candidates addressed the students of Commerce and Arts, lectures being called off at 12.40 in order to enable the students to gather to hear the speakers. Various placards dorn the boards of the campus and walls of the different buildings.

The gathering will not, however, concern itself entirely with the speakers.
Other matters of importance will be discussed, especially the Constitution of the Students' Society with reference to the Athletic Governing Board. Important matters concerning Theatre Night, which is not far off will also have its share of discussion.

The Mandolin Club will be on hand to supply the music throughout the course of the evening.

FORSEY WINS REFORD CUP LAST NIGHT

T. Papineau Memorial Cup
for Impromptu Speaking

CLOSE DEBATING

Sir A. Currie, Dean Laing,
Profs. Tyndale and Evans
Present

E. Forsey, Arts '25, speaking on the subject of Immigration, was last night awarded the Talbot Papineau Memorial Cup presented by Mrs. R. W. Reford, for proficiency in impromptu speaking.
The contest was held in the Union under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society, and A. E. Tremaine, Comm. '23, the president, acted as chairman.

A rather peculiar feature of the contest was the fact that the winner's name was by error omitted from the list of speakers published in yesterday's Daily.
Forsey upheld the negative side of the resolution: "That Canada should adopt a more liberal policy in regard to the admission of, and provision for, immigrants."

In part he said: "Immigration is likely, if over-encouraged, to produce a bad condition of affairs in Canada. There are many grave disadvantages in allowing too much free immigration. Disease, degeneracy, ignorance, low standards of living, are the necessary outcome of such a policy. Thus I maintain that we should solve our present hard problems among our own people, such as that of infant mortality."

He also stated that immigration is likely to produce trouble. "In the first place farmers are wanted, not artisans.
The country is at present flooded with men of low mentalities, unwilling to go on the farms, where they are more especially needed. Our own workmen are underworked by men who have less right to the positions that the foreigner usurps.
A lower standard of living enables them to live more cheaply, and their ignorance and low morals have a decidedly bad effect upon our own blood. Disease in the immigrant is a factor that is one of the utmost importance. The infant mortality in Canada is a hard problem which we have to face at the present moment. Why increase this difficulty by increasing the number of people who are likely to do more to augment the already existing trouble?"

T. H. Winslow was the first speaker in the competition. He tried to prove that University Co-Education is beneficial to the community. He said:

"My principal point is that the segregation of men and women, boys and girls, is unnatural. A college man requires the social side of his life to be emphasized to as great an extent as his intellectual. Economically, he said, Universities can be run at a lower expense if the same apparatus and the same lectures are employed for men and women."

J. Charness of Law '24, spoke for the affirmative of "Resolved that required attendance at lectures is in the best interests of the student." He stated that in the Faculty of Science laboratory work made a strict compulsory attend-

MONTREAL, TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1923

THE INDIVIDUAL AT COLLEGE

It cannot be the aim of any university to graduate men who are as homogeneous as the products of the factory. On the contrary, to bring out the qualities which go to make up the individuality of the student would seem to be a more reasonable and more likely object.

At college it is that the youth develops into manhood. The influences under which he comes at this stage of his life determine in very considerable measure what his later life will be. Whether, for instance, the boy with some spark of originality in him will, as a man, be of great service to the community as a leader of men, or whether he will be simply a mediocrity content to be led by others, depends a great deal upon his college life. In short, college may either develop individuality and originality, or it may stifle both. No college would consciously strive to achieve the latter result.

In many universities today, however, there are influences tending to submerge individualism in order to produce a general so-called college-spirit. Everything is sacrificed to the preservation of a group feeling. Particularly in the smaller colleges, and in colleges in small towns, the day is practically mapped out for the individual, and he "follows the crowd" faithfully from morn till night. The thing is carried so far in fact that students begin to dress alike. "Do what the other fellow does" is a rigidly followed motto. In the main, perhaps, this is only a natural result. Men who see each other every day are bound to take on some common characteristics. But when the men in our universities begin to lose their individual identity and become merged in the whole as an insignificant unit in the undergraduate body—which thinks, speaks and acts as a body—then the universities are not serving one of their main purposes. Reasoning power is dwarfed and regard for independent thinking minimized: the undergraduate accepts the prevailing campus notions, and acquires the prejudices and the ideas of the whole group. And these become part of the student for no more logical a reason than that they are the views of the undergraduate body. Individualism loses itself and originality snuffs itself out only to produce pseudo-college spirit—the value of which to the university, students do not have the originality to question.

Individualism which is so strongly marked as to produce lack of interest in campus activities is by no means to be desired; but the other extreme where loyalty to campus activities is made all-important is even more pernicious. McGill spirit should present a happy medium.

AN INTELLECTUAL BARTER

The university man is thought of as a man of consideration, as a man devoted to the solution, if possible, of questions of the day and of the age, as a man to whom frivolity is not unknown, certainly, but to whom the more serious aspects of life present a constant incentive towards learning more about their complexities. It would be, then, with considerable surprise that one convinced of the foregoing attributes of the college man would listen to the various campus conversations indulged in by the average student of today. He would hear mention of the latest hockey game, of the date of the next college dance, of the possibility of passing the "final" without a supplemental—but of the deeper philosophies, of the burning issues of the day he would, very likely, remain in the profoundest ignorance if he were depending upon a casual visit to the university for enlightenment. Opportunity for deliberation the student has in plenty; that it is seized by a comparatively few is a cause for regret. It is true, only too true, that the desire for relaxation has induced a tendency to stagnation in the discussions once associated peculiarly with the undergraduate. Definite ideas, firm beliefs, wide knowledge do not come from a mere existence at a university. They are the result of inter-change of opinions, and the growth of the one is dependent upon the development of the other. College is an intellectual barter in which sellers are as essential as buyers.

The Principal of McGill last evening, when addressing the audience following the speeches of the men competing for the Talbot Papineau Memorial Cup, aptly stressed the importance of discussion in the student's life when he affirmed that "the college which has given to its graduate the ability to express himself clearly, has performed a noble function." The speeches of the competitors last evening all went to testify to conversancy with current happenings and to conviction upon the subjects upon which they spoke. Only with such knowledge and such conviction could a man speak with decision, as each did last night, upon topics given to him at very short notice. The Impromptu Speaking Contest was more than a mere test of oratorical capability; it was a gauge of previous discussion upon questions of vital import to the student.

EDITORIAL NOTES

All McGill will gather in the Union this evening when a meeting of the Students' Society will be held in the form of a smoker at which the numerous candidates for office will speak, and at which various other important items of business, such as the amendment to the constitution of the Society, necessitated by the institution of the new Athletic Governing Board, and final arrangements for the Theatre Night will be considered. It is the duty of every McGill man, of every one who reads notice of the meeting, to be present. Business is its object, but its conduct will be characterized by interludes of entertainment which in themselves should prove of some value as a motive in attendance. Let the slogan for today be, "Meet me at the Smoker tonight."

Nominations for posts upon the Athletic Governing Board must be in the hands of the Secretary of the Students' Council by tomorrow at six o'clock in the evening. Attention must be given to this important demand. The success or failure of the new scheme will be a result, in large degree, of the calibre of the men composing it. Let the students of McGill be prudent in the selection of capable candidates for these two offices which are awaiting undergraduate holders.

It Pays to Advertise

THAT'S a recognized fact today. But bear this in mind: the only reason it pays to advertise is that millions of thrifty folks find it a paying proposition to be guided by the advertisements. If you will read advertising consistently for a while you'll readily agree that this statement is true.

It will pay you in money saved. Real bargains are offered frequently in the advertisements that appear in this paper. Watch for them. Take advantage of them.

It will pay you in time saved. It tells you exactly when and where to go for what you want to buy. You don't have to waste time and effort "shopping around." If your time is worth money, advertising will pay you.

It will pay you in added satisfaction. Every time a merchant or manufacturer advertises he obligates himself to sell you goods that are as advertised. Read the advertisements and be sure you get your money's worth.

Reading the advertisements is a plain every-day business proposition. It is a duty you owe yourself and your pocketbook.

CLASS HOCKEY REPORT

Report of Class and Faculty Hockey League Manager to the Hockey Club, McGill University.

Mr. President and Gentlemen:

The Class Hockey this year was played, as hitherto, with an elimination series in each faculty and a play-off between the faculty winners. The result of this play-off was to give Science '24 the championship and the possession of the Capper-Porter Trophy for the year. In all nineteen teams took part in this series, and approximately two hundred men turned out for the teams. In Arts, there were five teams including a team made up of men taking graduate work. In Commerce, there were three, in Dentistry two, in Science four and in Medicine six. The faculty of Law was without representatives both in this series and the All-Star. As winners of the series the following men of Science '24 are entitled to any insignia it may bestow the Athletic Association to grant.

Grade "B" Numerals.
A. D. McCall, L. McGillis, L. C. Lutton, W. Findlay, A. E. Cave, A. L. James, T. D. Pollock, E. H. Van Koeghnet, W. R. Ray and R. Burroughs.

The All-Star Series was won by the team representing Science. There is, on account of a most regrettable occurrence, still one game to be played in this series, but it cannot affect the Championship. The following faculties were represented: Arts, Commerce, Science, Medicine, Dentistry and Macdonald. Science successfully defeated each of the other teams, thus getting a clear hold on the Championship. The following men are entitled to such insignia as the Athletic Association see fit to grant:

In all there were 41 games scheduled for the two series. It is strongly recommended that next year the All Star Series be done away with and also the elimination series in the faculties. For these would be substituted a play-off series in each faculty, but winners to play-off with the other faculty winners. Presuming that there were four teams entered in Arts, Science and Commerce, which will next year be a four year course, six in Medicine and two in Dentistry, as has been usual in the last three years, five four team leagues could be drawn up, two of the Medical teams being leagued with the two Dent. entries. In all this would necessitate the scheduling of but forty games, faculty play-off included, or one less than the present session. The advantage of this system over the other would lie in the fact that weak teams would not be eliminated at the outset and hence have no further interest in the series. As the experience of the past has shown it is usual that freshman teams are eliminated we thus lose a chance of developing players who would otherwise, instead of playing but one game playing three, with the possibility of more. As the primary object of the league is to develop players and as, in the opinion of the Manager, this system would, to that end, answer much better, it is again strongly recommended that the above system be substituted for the present schedules.

It is further recommended that all any time during the playing session had any time during the playing session had positions on any of the three college squads, be definitely barred from playing class hockey until they receive written notification that their services are no longer required on the college squads. This would necessitate a slight change in the existing regulations. Lastly, it is recommended that all allotment of practice hours be, in the future, handled by the Department of Physical Education. This would save much duplication of work and would also, I am sure, prove much more efficient. This would leave the Manager with but two hours a day to look after from 5.15 until 7.15, when games would be played.

The Manager desires to express his heartfelt thanks to the Department of Physical Education for the co-operation they have afforded. He would also like to thank Mr. Richard Wilson, of Commerce '24, and Mr. Aylmer Morris, of Law '25, for the very able and great assistance given him by them. Furthermore he desires to show his appreciation of the hard work and splendid service done by Mr. Joseph Probert, the rink attendant, and would highly recommend that anything in the shape of a bonus, paid in the past, be given again this year.

For the position of Manager, next year, either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Morris are highly recommended, and would be eminently suitable. Whichever it may be, I would like to extend to him my heartfelt wishes for a successful season.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) G. B. PUDDICOMBE, Manager Class Hockey, 1922-23.

KEEN COMPETITION FOR GYM. LAURELS

Wickstead Competition to Be Completed Wednesday

The High School gym., yesterday afternoon, was the scene of marvellous displays of dexterity in gymnastic work. The occasion for this exhibition was the Wickstead Competition. The competition was divided into three sections, Senior, Freshman, and a class for those students in the intervening years.

The men gave a wonderful exhibition of the co-ordination of every muscle in their body. They showed themselves to be very precise in their movements and exhibited some real "thrillers" on the horizontal bar. The outstanding performer on the floor was Delahay, with Consiglio a close runner-up.

The judges for the competition were: Dr. A. S. Lamb, Dr. Harvey and Mr. C. B. Powter, of the Montreal High School.

In the senior class the competitors were Amaron and McLean, of Arts '23, and Rolleston, of Macdonald. In the intermediate class were McLeitch, P. Rolleston, F. Consiglio, J. R. Delahay and Bourne, and in the freshman class only one entrant, namely, McKee.

The winner of the freshman class in this competition is awarded Dr. Harvey's cup. As McKee is the only freshman entered in this section, he will receive the cup, but at the competition yesterday afternoon he showed up very well, and should have a good chance to land a berth on the Intercollegiate team of five.

As the result of the lateness of the hour, the latter part of the competition was postponed till 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At the close of the contest the winners will be announced and the team chosen.

B. W. AND F. ELECT STRONG EXECUTIVE

Amendments to Constitution Proposed

Proposed amendments to the constitution of the Canadian Intercollegiate B. W. and F. Union were discussed at a meeting of the McGill organization held in the Union yesterday afternoon.

The election of officers, which next occupied the minds of those present, resulted as follows: President, F. S. Howes; Vice-President, M. Abinovich; Secretary-Manager, Shorty Morris; Wrestling Representative, McNaughton; Boxing Representative, Snow; Fencing Representative, Fielding. It was felt by all that though the University had acclaimed the B. W. and F. victory as another win for the year, there had been little evidence of the realization that this particular team was the best that had been turned out since before the war, when an intercollegiate victory was last won.

It was the general feeling of the club also that a picture of the team, many of whom are graduating this year, should be placed in the Union Lounge Room, along with the pictures of other championship teams. All agreed that it was the duty of the Athletic Association to provide this picture, but a willingness to contribute part of the money, if necessary, was expressed.

Although the B. W. and F. Club, as its name implies, is also open to fencers, the Athletic Constitution of the University does not provide for the granting of insignia to College champions in fencing. Only the Individual Intercollegiate Champion is open to any award. This was considered by many to be due to the lack of enthusiasm displayed in this section of the Club, and it was resolved that every effort be made to place the fencers on a par with the wrestlers and boxers with regard to awards for college championships.

Howes brought the meeting to a close by thanking last year's executive for the splendid work they had done for the Club.

FOOTBALL ASPIRANTS LIST STILL SMALL

The list of football candidates for next fall, which is placed on the Notice Board in the Union Lobby, has still room for many more names. So far less than fifty men have signified their intentions of presenting themselves in September for gridiron training. These men will be notified by mail when the first practice is to take place.

It has been long felt by the executive of the Football Club that many men who have the physique and the latent ability, fail to turn out for football. Under a capable coach like Frank Shaughnessy, inexperienced men can be so tutored in the rudiments of the game that within a season or two they may become valuable members of the team. It is to these raw recruits in particular that the call goes out from the Coach. The list, it is hoped, will continue to swell and double itself before the examinations.

THINGS TO WORRY OVER

—By Psyche.

Referring to Mildred Churchill, the prettiest girl at Wesleyan College, a local newspaper states: "200 men would marry her."

Our country can tolerate no such polygamy.

A New York broker was arrested on Sunday for selling worthless stock. The tendency towards Sabbath observance in the Metropolis is indeed gratifying.

Newspapers report a shortage of sausage in Germany. Bad as conditions are the worst is yet to come.

Daylight saving is now a question of the hour.

At the present rate of exchange, there is very little incentive for a man to make his mark in the world.

One of last night's speakers, arguing in favour of allowing Freshmen to play in Intercollegiate football insists that "if we are to maintain a high standard everyone should be allowed to play."

The speaker must have overlooked the rule in Canadian Rugby permitting only twelve men on each side.

Dramatic critics have been trying to figure out who was "The Guilty One" in Pauline Frederick's show last week. We think Messrs. Morton and Trill are equally to blame.

It is a relief to note that the enterprising manager of Olga Petrova refrained from advertising that "The Hurricane" took New York by storm.

ANNUAL MEETING OF S.C.A. TONIGHT

Election of Officers Will Take Place

The annual meeting of the Student Christian Association will be held in Strathcona Hall to-night at seven o'clock, the time having been set early to allow for the Smoker in the Union.

The Student Board of Directors which has been carrying on at the Hall for the past year have reached the end of their term. They will make the report of the Session's work in all departments at to-night's meeting.

The elections of the men who will take their places will also be held. A nominating committee has drawn up a slate and several additional nominations have been received from the members. G. W. Mitchell, who has so ably handled the finances of the association, is mentioned as the next President.

One of two items of vital importance to the future of the Hall will be raised. It is especially urged that all those interested should attend.

ILLNESS OF KING PREVENTS PARADE

Sophomores Warn Monarch of Dangers

It has been definitely decided that there will be no parade in connection with the King Cook celebration this year. It was thought inadvisable to have the King appear on the city streets in this inclement weather as he is suffering acutely from a rare tropical illness known as Harbottle's Angina. Sophomores in attendance are quite seriously concerned. One of them made the statement that he would not be responsible for the King's asomatic pressure if he dared to venture out.

However, it has been ascertained that the dark-eyed hours from the south have already entrained for Montreal and are expected some time Thursday. The animal trainer also reports that the wild Spirogyra have not been fed for a week and that they will be particularly vicious by Thursday night. The absence of the usual parade then is not without its recompense.

"Know ye then by these presents, all gentlemen and others who hold tickets for Ye Ancient Ceremonie; that you are expected to present yourselves at the West Entrance of the New Medical Building on Thursday evening, March 15th, no later than 8 p.m."

HARD-FOUGHT GAME RESULTED IN A TIE

Commerce and Dent. All-Stars Baseball Game

Last evening, at 6.30 p.m., at the Baron Byng High School, the All Star Baseball teams from Commerce and Dentistry played a 4-4 tie game. The match was from the beginning very exciting, and as the score shows, the teams were pretty evenly matched. It was a more or less pitchers' battle all through, and both twirlers deserve credit for their steadiness under the strenuous pace set by the rest of the team.

A few interested onlookers added to the din by occasionally imposing their views of their respective team's ability upon everybody present in loud cheers or boos. The first and last innings were scoreless. In the second Commerce scored, which drew first blood. In the third inning Commerce again scored, this time twice, making it so far 3-0. The fourth saw the Dents evening up matters by scoring two runs to Commerce's one. The Dents, scored once in each of the following innings, managing at the same time in keeping Commerce from scoring. Campbell, of Commerce, and Longley, of Dents, both scored two runs. Magid and Gauthier, of Commerce, and Hershon and Lowrey, of Dents, each scored one run.

The line-up follows:

DEPENDABILITY.

One is pleasantly surprised upon arriving at an appointed place at the time set to meet some friends to find the friends there waiting to fill the appointment. When one loans a book or perhaps a bit of money, it is a surprise if the borrower returns the loan at the time set.

Promptness in keeping engagements or in repaying loans should not occasion surprise, but it does, for the reason that one so seldom meets with it. Hours are wasted standing on corners waiting for tardy friends. Patience is lost and friendships are broken because borrowed articles are not returned when they are expected.

Dependability is not one of the virtues of the modern young man or woman. They are not dishonest; they fully intend to meet their obligations at the promised time, but something always seems to interfere. Never a one but who has a good alibi, but alibis do not make up for lost time or repair broken friendships.

When one does meet a dependable person he clings to him with confidence, for he has here something sure, something upon which he can count. The person may not be as brilliant as his erring brother, and he may not be as interesting company, but one knows that he means what he says when he says it.

The dependable man is the man who will make the success in life. He may not be at the head of campus activities, but one can usually find that he is a member of one of the committees that helped to make the work a success. He may advance more slowly in the first few years out of college and not make so many friends among the influential members of the community, but in ten or twenty years he will be one of the influential leaders, while the one who was brilliant, but less dependable, will be hanging on the edge of the circle or will have dropped into oblivion.—Ohio State Lantern.

It will not be many years until we shall be visiting the museums to see that quaint product of other years, the automobile of the '20s. The Germans have lately perfected a most curious advancement in land locomotion, this being a truck with all the peculiarities of a horse, yet being a machine instead of the regulation four wheels it has two pairs of skies, one of which always rests upon the ground while the other moves forward. In this method it can amble along at six miles an hour with a normal step of four feet, which can be increased or decreased as necessary. In this manner it can traverse bogs, ditches, fallen trees, deserts or shallow rivers, being perfectly capable of adapting itself to any circumstances. Never does it have to resort to so cumbersome a thing as turning around, the body is merely turned on the axles and it goes forward or sideways as before. Imagine it would be rather puzzling to one slightly inebriated.

Co—Wasn't that a marvelous lecture that Prof. Dony gave us on the Culture of Prunes?

Ed—Splendid—he's so full of his subject.—Gargyle.

AT THE IMPERIAL

Once again the Imperial has succeeded in giving to an appreciative audience a really good bill. Variety, humour and skill combine to give the audience two hours of solid enjoyment.

Kenny and Hollis, the Original College Boys, billed as "The Two Doctors", came in for the greatest share of the applause. While they were undoubtedly good themselves, a large measure of their success is due to the aid they received from members of some of the other skits. Kenny did the "Dance of the Man with the Wooden Leg" quite well, muttering some semi-audible remarks in a French of his own, all the while. Following this he ran among the audience exclaiming "Fet ma Dahmsay", and the audience complied with his request.

Brent Hayes did exceptionally well on his tenor banjo. He played several selections, including the Hungarian Gipsy Dance. This was followed by one or two jazz selections, but it is evident that Mr. Hayes has made a special study of the Classics.

"Hello Wife", a musical comedy, while replete with humour, is just a little bit far-fetched. The story centres about Mr. Cornwallis Napoleon Crosby, who is madly in love with the vampire actress, Fifi, and Mrs. Crosby, the shrewish wife of Napoleon. Claire Crosby, the daughter of the ill-assorted pair, is in love with the landlord Kenneth, which further complicates affairs.

Dick Henry and Carrie Adelaide do some nice patter work in an act entitled "A Change in Dancing". Leslie Curtis impersonates an Englishman just a little too well for one who has seen a real person of the type he is supposed to represent, but he is funny for all that.

Ray Fern and Marce sing fairly well, and pull off some jokes centering around the local mayor.

In "Brothers Under the Skin", an interesting and well staged picture, Helene Chadwick appears to advantage.—T.H.H.

"TRIFLERS"

formian, giving the opinion of an English professor and dean of the summer session there on "triflers" is interesting. He maintains that 70 per cent. of the students in college are wasting the time of their instructors and are going to school merely because it is the accepted thing. Becoming economically philosophic, the professor points out that with more stringent scholastic requirements 50 per cent. of the parasites would buckle down to work and the other half would drop out. This, he states, would relieve congestion and lessen cost of university maintenance. We do not profess to have studied education exhaustively and to be an authority on the matter; however, common observations refute the arguments of the western savant. Annually we see students who have spent almost two years in finding themselves, and during that time have remained in the University only through the generosity of the dean. In the last two years such students have made superior work and reaped the benefits of the University to which they are entitled.

The economic phase of the professor's argument is ridiculous. Why not make the requirements so stringent as to eliminate all students and then there would be no expense of university maintenance?

We do not mean to defend laziness. It is a curse of college life, but college is to help the prodigal son who has wasted his talents. He would waste them were he out of school and would be stranded without that redeeming influence which higher learning offers.

The professor is impatient with students. He should make the acquaintance of wayward students who have seen the light and reaped the advantages of learning before it was too late. His method would make ditch diggers of them before they proved that they are fitted for better things.

PHARMACISTS ADDRESSED BY HATCHER

Very Interesting Talk on Ancient Drugs

PHARMACY DEGREE

Psychology in Connection
With Drugs Stressed

Dr. Hatcher of the Chemistry Department gave an interesting and illuminating talk on "Pharmacy Two Thousand Years Ago" before the Pharmaceutical Society last night. A short business meeting was called after the lecture in which the activities of the past year were discussed.

The meeting was called to order by the president, D. Jassby, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Miss Musgrove. After the adoption of the minutes Dr. Hatcher was introduced as an "Authority on Ancient and Modern Pharmacy." Dr. Hatcher disclaimed this distinction, saying that he knew a great deal more about Ancient than about Modern Pharmacy, and he confined himself wholly to a discussion of this science practised by the ancients save for a few comparisons in our own day. Two thousand years ago all that was known about chemicals could be contained in a small space. What little medicinal knowledge available was in the hands of the Arabians. Although some slight knowledge of the science was available it was of very little practical use and the great majority of their cures were performed by magic or as students today know it, psychology, which is taking an ever increasingly important place in the curriculum of medical studies.

Dr. Hatcher then took up the healing qualities of various liquids as compared with ancient times. Today our drug stores are stocked with extracts from every imaginable source, animal, vegetable and mineral, as compared with this in the time of Caesar Augustus little was cared for products other than animal in medicinal uses. As an example of this, if one had aspirations towards popularity in those early days it was necessary to cut the fat from between a lion's eyes and rub it on the body. Upon later investigation it was found that there was no fat on his part of a lion's body so that it was impossible to become popular.

As regards solvents, water, alcohol and vinegar were in greatest use and even today these are among the chief solvents known to scientists. The magicians, as the doctors of that time, did not have drug stores such as ours to patronize, for while an efficient pharmacy may be run in a very small room, the cures effected by the ancients included everything from an elephant's trunk to a field mouse.

Dr. Hatcher finished by emphasizing the point that formerly, as today, almost unbelievable results were obtained by the mere exercising of the healer's mind. At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was moved by the vice-president of the society.

A short business meeting was then called, during which a financial report for the past year, showing the standing of the society at the present time, was given.

N. Fish, the founder of the society, was then called upon for a few words concerning the degree of Bachelor of Pharmacy. The society was started with this degree as its objective, and the end for which the members have hoped and worked is now in sight. The Board of Governors is considering this degree and some definite statement is expected in a short time. The Board is discussing a curriculum for the course which will be three years. It will also be of interest to many graduates who have their diplomas that they may take one year post-graduate work and obtain their degree.

Mr. H. Neamin, who was a member of last year's graduating class, then addressed the meeting on the doings of pharmacists of the past and present and of the interest with which the present students are regarded by the graduates of that department. Mr. Neamin stated that students of the Department of Pharmacy had no need to be ashamed of their profession, that students of that science had made some of the most important discoveries in the field of science and that pharmacists of today were doing their bit in contributing to the general fund of knowledge. He also said that anything done by the graduates reflected on the present students as well as on themselves. After a few moments' discussion the meeting was brought to a close.

DAILY SCRIBES TO DINE ON THURSDAY

Promotions and Pin Awards
to Be Announced

Members of the "Daily" staff will cas taside all differences of rank as they sit around the good old festive board at the Union on Thursday evening when the annual dinner takes place with all the elaborateness and splendor which has marked these functions in the past. From the lowliest "cub" reporter to the high dignitaries of the Managing Board the whole staff upon which the "Daily" leans is expected to be on hand. A speaker from one of the city papers will in all probability address the gathering and give some sidelights on the journalistic game as it is practised professionally.

In addition to the splendid menu and the good-fellowship which prevails at these dinners, an attractive feature in the past has been the announcement of awards of bronze pins for service, and particularly the announcement of changes in the staff and promotions. Owing to the graduation of several members of the News Board there will be vacancies to be filled and much interest centres round the appointment of the new men.

The dinner affords a very welcome opportunity for the members of the staff to become more intimately acquainted. As each reporter is allotted to a particular night in the week and placed under a particular news editor it is rather difficult for all the members to meet one another. The annual dinner, together with the various staff meetings held during the year, serves to bring the men together.

This is the last gathering of the staff for this year, and as the major social activity of the "Daily" scribes the dinner is expected to attract every member of the staff.

PLAN MEMORIAL TO FALLEN SOLDIERS

Macdonald Soon to Honour
Heroes

A further recognition in honour of the students and graduates of Macdonald College engaged in active service during the late war is under way and it is now aimed to erect a memorial at Ste. Anne's before long. A committee has been formed to raise necessary funds. It consists of C. Raymond (Agriculture), chairman; J. E. McQuat (Teachers), Miss J. Babb (Science), and Miss M. Price representing the Macdonald High School.

Some recognition has already been paid to the graduates and undergraduates in the School of Agriculture by the establishment of a memorial scholarship by the Agricultural Alumni Association amounting to approximately $200 per year; the erection of a bronze tablet to the graduates. This was also done by the Agricultural Alumni Association, and is placed on one of the pillars of the main corridors leading into the library.

It has been felt for some time, however, that some memorial should be erected by the college that will, in a tangible way, keep before us at present and pass on to future generations the names of all those connected with Macdonald College who laid down their lives in the great cause.

The college has appointed a committee consisting of representatives from the three schools and the High School to take the necessary steps towards providing a worthy tribute. Naturally the nature of this tribute will have to be determined by the amount that the committee receives in response to its appeal. There is at present a nucleus of $200 which has been given by the Agricultural Alumni Association. This amount can be increased ten times over if the hundreds of students who have gone through Macdonald will but give a small contribution each.

The committee feel that the memorial will be a truer recognition of our appreciation if there is a large number of contributors rather than relatively large amounts from a few people.

The total enlistment for the college was 303, of which 35 were members of the staff, 184 were students or graduates in the School of Agriculture, 15 were from the School for Teachers, 11 from the School of Household Science, and 32 from the High School.

The Macdonald Honour Roll includes:

Staff: J. L. Dashwood, D. Weir, J. V. Dupre.

BUDDING SCENARIO WRITERS' CHANCE

Valuable Prizes Are Offered
in Contest

McGill students possessing the ability to write scenarios from which motion pictures can be produced have been given the opportunity to turn their ability into money through the proposition of an American corporation who are offering for competition scholarships ranging in value to one thousand dollars.

The following are the rules and conditions of the competition:

LAEMMLE SCHOLARSHIP CONTEST
1.—Scholarship of one thousand dollars will be awarded the student submitting the best scenario from which a motion picture can be produced. This sum will be paid on or before October 1, 1923, to the treasurer or bursar of the college at which the prize winner is enrolled and shall be paid by the bursar to the student in equal yearly installments throughout the balance of his or her college course. (Example: If the winner be a Junior, $500 will be turned over on October 1, 1923, and $500 on October 1, 1924. If the winner be a Senior on October 1, 1923, the bursar or treasurer will turn over the entire $1,000 on that date.)

2.—In case the winner is a Senior at the time of the submission of the scenario and shall have graduated prior to the announcement of the award, the entire $1,000 will be paid direct to the winner in gold.

3.—In addition to the scholarship the scenario will be paid for at a rate to be determined by the company, said amount to be not less than $500.

4.—The sum of one thousand dollars will also be paid to the college or university at which the winner is a student. This will be in addition to all monies paid to the winner, as outlined in paragraphs one, two and three, and may be used by the Board of Trustees of the college or university for any purpose whatsoever in the interest of the college.

5.—In the event that there are stories other than the prize winning story that we can use, we will purchase them at rates to be determined by this company, said rates to be not less than $500 for each story.

6.—All students now enrolled in colleges and universities which have approved of the Laemmle Scholarship Contest are eligible.

7.—Colleges desiring that their students participate in this contest should notify us to that effect as soon as possible.

8.—Scenarios should be written in short story form. Students should be particularly requested to tell their stories in the simplest and briefest manner possible, omitting all non-essential details. The process of arranging the continuities and working scripts will be taken care of by our Scenario Department at Universal City, Calif.

9.—Scenarios must be typewritten. Title, full name of writer and name of college must appear in upper right and corner of first page.

10.—Students must state at the end of scenario that the idea used is, so far as they know, an original one.

11.—Scenarios which can not be used by us will be returned by registered mail to the college or university from which submitted.

12.—All scenarios from your college or university should be forwarded not later than May 15, 1923, in one package by registered mail addressed as follows:

CARL LAEMMLE,
UNIVERSAL PICTURE CORP'N,
Attention: Scholarship Contest Dept., 1600 BROADWAY,
NEW YORK CITY.

13.—The package should contain a list showing the following:

a. Titles of all scenarios therein.
b. Name of writer of each scenario submitted.
c. Name of college or university from which forwarded.
d. Signature of person delegated by college to forward same.

14.—Scenarios once submitted may not be withdrawn until the end of the contest. All students who participate automatically agree that Universal Pictures Corporation has an option on the purchase of all stories submitted, said option not to expire until return of script. Students further agree to accept such amount as Universal may offer (which will not be less than $500) in full for all rights of every name and nature.

15.—This company reserves the right to make any changes considered necessary in title or story.

16.—The judges will be chosen by the Universal Pictures Corporation and their decision shall be final.

17.—The announcement of the winner of the contest will be made not later than September 15, 1923.

18.—The name of the author and of the college or university will appear on the film when produced.

SMOKER ON MAR. 21 FOR WESTERN CLUB

Varied Programme of Excellent Material Provided

The final gathering of the McGill Western Club is set for Wednesday, March 21 at 8 p.m., and will take the form of a smoker in the Union. The present executive have worked hard all year, and succeeded in keeping up the enviable record of the previous year's activities. For though primarily a smoker, this will be by no means the only form of entertainment offered. For the lovers of music, a five-piece orchestra will be present and intersperse melody between the various events of the evening. Two well-known youngsters will put on an exhibition of blind-fold boxing, and a pair of grapplers will add a wrestling bout.

An added feature will take a form of novel entertainment, and while yet in the stages of development promises to provide laughter galore. This last-mentioned event is being put on by the executive. For the members themselves to participate in will be the annual election of officers for the coming year. Many staff members will be present, and doubtless some will be called upon during the evening to address the society.

COL. MOLSON TO ADDRESS SKI CLUB

Annual Meeting in the Union
Today

The annual meeting of the Ski and Snowshoe Club is being held today at five o'clock in the Music Room of the Union. The meeting is always one of great interest, and largely attended by the members. At the meeting, in addition to the general business to be discussed, is the election of officers for the next session. Reports on the year's activities will be given, and the trophies won by the members of this season's championship team will be given out.

The club's honorary president, Lt.-Col. Molson, is to be present at the meeting and has offered to say a few words on skiing in Switzerland. Col. Molson has been in Switzerland for a portion of this past winter and has seen many of the skiers of the English colleges who were spending their Christmas vacation in that part of the country. An event of interest which he witnessed was the Oxford-Cambridge Inter-varsity Race. On the Oxford team were Lawrence Armstrong, of Science '22, and John Carlson, Dartmouth '22, both of whom are well known to all McGill men. This account of skiing in Switzerland should be most interesting, especially as it seldom occurs that McGill has an opportunity to hear about that subject at first hand.

Lt.-Col. Molson has been honorary president of the Ski Club ever since its formation as a minor club of the college and has always shown a keen interest in its activities, as, indeed, he has always shown in all things McGill. Each year he has donated a cup which has been awarded to the McGill man showing the best all-round skill at the sport, and has this year been captured by R. L. Whittall, one of the mainstays of the team for the past two years.

All members of the Ski and Snowshoe Club should be present at this meeting to choose their officers for the coming year and take part in the general business of the club.

AND STILL SOME BIRDS WON- DER WHY BUSINESS IS DULL

"Is the office boy on duty to keep people away from me?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is there a bench in the hall on which busy men may sit while waiting to see me?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is there a hidden lock on the gate that leads into the outer office?"

"Yes, sir."

"Has the telephone girl been instructed to ask all who call for me their name and business?"

"Oh, yes; our telephone girls know all about that."

"And consult me before permitting anyone to talk to her?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is everything arranged here to make it as difficult as possible for people to transact business with this firm?"

"It is."

"Good. Then I'll go into my office and begin plans for our salesmen selling other people."

The soloists, who are both well known in Montreal, are Miss Frances James, soprano, and Miss Mary Izard, violinist.

The programme given above includes part-songs of a varied character, mostly by English composers. The recent visit of Sir Henry Newbolt will add interest to the inclusion of his famous "Drake's Drum" in the programme, and the fact that the musical setting is by Coleridge Taylor, who is perhaps best known for his song cycle "Llaniwatha", will dispose those few who have not already made the acquaintance of this song to give it a favourable reception.

Edward German, whose setting to Kipling's "Rolling Down to Rio" finds a place on the programme, was hailed in London on the production of his comic opera "The Princess of Kensington", as the man on whom the musical mantle, which Sir Arthur Sullivan had discarded, had fallen. His music has always breathed the spirit of Old England and "Rolling Down to Rio" is no exception. The poem itself is one of those which plentifully sprinkles Kipling's prose works, and is to be found in that inimitable collection of tales for children, "The Just So Stories".

Cesar Cui, one of the few foreign composers to be represented on the programme, had the distinction, peculiar among well known composers, of being also a military engineer of European reputation, and a recognized authority on fortifications. His compositions include half-a-dozen operas, of which "The Saracen" is best known, and also many songs. Cui's importance in musical history is due to the fact that he first awakened foreign interest in the new Russian School.

Modern composers are generally regarded by those whose interest in music is not based on profound experience as obscure and difficult to understand. Their attitude is perhaps traceable to the growing gulf between the educated composer and the uneducated public; for it is a fact, notwithstanding arguments recently urged with more zeal than discretion by certain University debaters, that far more effort is required nowadays to produce a really great composer than was necessary in the days lamented by the classicists.

The trio of younger composers represented in this programme: H. Balfour Gardiner, Julius Harrison, and Cyril Jenkins, may however be heard with no misgiving on the part of the modern dilettante, for the songs can be truly said to be music which will appeal to the erudite and musically inclined alike.

This is the third formal concert of the Glee Club and those who have heard the previous efforts will notice a very great improvement in the ensemble. In common with other male-voice choirs the Glee Club has had some difficulty in finding tenors of the right quality of tone, but it will be seen that success has now been attained.

The progress made by the club since its reorganization has been remarkable and it is not too much to say that with a continuance of the wise direction that it has hitherto enjoyed, coupled with the admirable spirit of co-operation evinced by its members, the McGill University Glee Club will not be long before it will be heard further afield.

ance a necessity. He also asserted that in law a man can obtain a greater knowledge of the law by attendance at lectures than by private study in the library. R. H. McKee, of Med. '27, argued that Freshmen should be allowed to play in Intercollegiate Football.

"If we are to maintain a high standard in athletic competition everyone should be allowed to play. If Freshmen were debarred from playing it would mean a serious handicap to the McGill teams," he said.

J. M. Packham, of Comm. '24, tried to show that the French have acted unwisely in occupying the Ruhr district. He claimed three points: 1. That complete surrender of the German people being the necessary modus operandi of obtaining the Reparations would result in a condition of uncontrollable Bolshevism in Germany, which means disaster in Europe. 2.—Some kind of economic agreement could have been arrived at easily and peaceably before the invasion. Now the thing will be much harder if not impossible to decide. France is following the old plan of 'an eye for an eye', which does not work." 3.—If France continues her present plan of invasion she seeds of a future war will undoubtedly be sown.

C. E. Morris of Arts '25, advocating restoration of the British Navy to its pre-war status, said in part: "The small nations of the world need protection. Great Britain is the great power needed to protect them, therefore Great Britain should have as large a navy as possible to do so."

A. N. James, of Arts '25, spoke against Co-Education and incidentally against his own convictions. He claimed that women require a different training, that women need the education of the finer arts. They need music, painting, and domestic science.

F. R. Wilkes, of Law '23, attempted to show that Freshmen should be debarred from Intercollegiate Senior Football. "Freshmen tend to become bombastic and their heads turn, under the influence of the strenuous sport. It is physically detrimental to undeveloped manhood, and tends to exclude possible players later, after they have obtained the rights of priority."

J. Senechal, of Law '23, in depending the idea of Compulsory Education for the Province, stated that the present system is deficient, that to appreciate questions of national importance people should be better educated, and finally that compulsory education must be gratuitous.

W. L. Munn, of Comm. '24, said that Quebec's system of education is largely in the control of Roman Catholics, and therefore to enforce Compulsory Education would be to raise a difficult and dangerous racial and religious question.

Jos. Goldsmith, of Comm. '23 dealt with free trade from the protectionist's standpoint. He said that raw materials should be worked here. Forest products should not be exported; if they are there will be no encouragement for future immigration.

G. N. Penrose, of Arts '25 objected to "P. T." being compulsory, because consideration is not taken of the fact that men indulge in other athletic activities apart from the University. He held that P. T. was a drudgery, and is psychologically objectionable.

B. Cohen, of Arts '24, held that tariff should be free, since the West would benefit thereby since fruit would be cheaper, and cotton would be obtained at a more advantageous price for our manufacturers. Canada is the beneficiary.

Bert Wells, Arts '23, said the French situation should be considered from the standpoint of France. "Germany has treated the Peace Treaty as a scrap of paper, and has shown no great desire to pay her debts." France should treat Germany as Germany treated her."

R. K. Jones, Arts '23, claimed that P. T. is advantageous to the student, and should therefore be compulsory. "A strong mind in a strong body" is necessary for the production of great men, and a great nation.

W. Brewer, Comm. '23, maintained that attendance at lectures should be voluntary, as college men should be treated as such.

S. Freeman, Arts '23, said that the vast size of Canada demanded immigration. Great Britain over populated, and National Railways require more money from use.

After a few words from Sir Arthur Currie, the judges, Dean Laing, Prof. Evans and Prof. Tyndale, announced the decision and presented the imposing and coveted trophy.

COMMERCE MEN SHOW ABILITY AS ACTORS

Last evening in the Union, the Commerce actors became the strolling players. They wandered from one room to another as each one presented a busy appearance. They first visited the ball-room, where mingled with fitful outbursts of music from the musicians gathered at one end, were R. V. C.ettes busily engaged in arranging decorations for the Alma Mater Dance. The reading room was next invaded, and it was found that the Tailor Cup was being hotly contested. When the strolling players finally settled, they rehearsed their skit, being interrupted occasionally by applause and other means of approbation. It would not do to divulge the plot, because it is really a deep one, and one must wait till Theatre Night to witness the unravelling. Suffice to say the act is a good one, featuring several well known stars, including even singers of repute and dramatists of good calibre.
